

Dear Confreres et Consoeurs,

For all who enjoyed and remember last season's marvelous dinner at Bibou--winner of the DINNER OF THE YEAR AWARD-- you will once again have the opportunity to repeat that wonderful gastronomic experience on Sunday, February 27 at 5:30pm. For those of you who have yet to experience this exquisite restaurant...now is your chance!

Not only was Bibou named one of the top restaurants in "Philadelphia Magazine's" January 2011 issue, "50 Best Places to Eat Right Now", but it was also recently recognized by the highly regarded and influential wine expert Robert Parker as being, "the best French bistro in the entire country." High praise, indeed, for a little unpretentious restaurant many of us have come to love so well, and whose description of its owners, Monsieur and Madame Calmels, by the food editors of "Philadelphia Magazine" we know to be so true: "Pierre Calmels' cooking is as heartfelt as his wife Charlotte's warm hospitality at this very tiny, very Gallic BYOB."

We will start this all French gastronomic feast with a Champagne reception and assorted hors d'oeuvres, followed by an amuse-bouche to be paired with an exquisite sparkling Cidre Boucher from Brittany. We will then move onto a wonderful foie-gras duo section of the meal to be accompanied by a Gewurtztraminer from Alsace. Roasted half lobster, escarole, with a brown butter lemon vinaigrette to be balanced with a Chateau Grand Carrety Sauternes (2008) will follow. As if your mouth isn't watering enough, we will then be having wild boar with a mushroom fricassee to delight our palates! For the occasion, we will pull from our own cellar a Savigny-les-Beaune les Gravins 2006, rated 90 points by Robert Parker. The rest of the evening, as with any Chaîne dinner, will be filled with surprises, delectable food, amazing wines and good friends. One thing for certain is that Bibou will not disappoint!

This promises to be a splendid evening for all in attendance! Space at Bibou is understandably limited, so please secure your reservation by sending in your check as soon as possible.

Vive la Chaîne!
